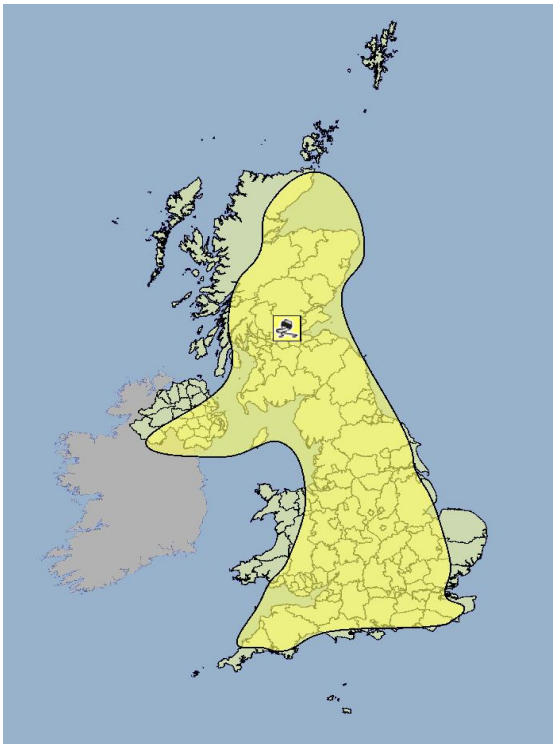
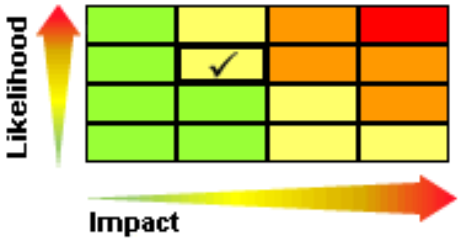
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
After a very cold day on Sunday, temperatures are likely to fall well below freezing across much of the country into the start of Monday. This will lead to any melted snow refreezing, whilst coasts exposed to the northeasterly wind will continue to see further wintry showers at times, these falling onto subzero surfaces.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 00:05 on Mon, 19th Mar 2018 until 10:00 on Mon, 19th Mar 2018

Ice on roads, pavements and cycle paths is likely either where melted snow refreezes or where further wintry showers occur, these mainly in the east of England and Scotland. This increases the risk of accidents, as well as injuries due to falls.
